

CQ Insider

Connecting You to Our Best Sources

“CQ Insider is an impressive collection of descriptive and contact information for government agencies, elected officials, nonprofits and public interest groups.”

— Library Journal (April 15, 2002)

CQ Insider takes users right to the organization and person they need, anywhere from the White House, executive branch, Congress, and the judiciary, to state-level government, to nonprofits, international organizations, and public interest groups. And practical tools like a customized address book, letter templates, and special “save and export” features let users capture, use, and reuse the relevant information they find. Fully searchable and browsable, CQ Insider draws from over 10,000 verified contacts, providing valuable hits for users at any level.

Authoritative Information

Verified and updated contact information is drawn from CQ’s wealth of researched sources, including: contact names, mailing addresses, phone and fax numbers, e-mail and Web site addresses, and organization descriptions.

Federal information includes contacts for thousands of congressional, White House and executive branch, and judicial branch offices.

State information includes contacts for thousands of executive, legislative, and judicial branch offices, as well as key state facts and laws.

Additional state information includes fact sheets, public higher educational institutions, key licensing boards and laws, and more.

International and nonprofit information includes contacts for thousands of private, special interest, and other organizations.

Practical information on careers and internships in Washington includes tips, advice, and helpful Web sites.

Time-sensitive update cycle includes monthly revisions and “rush” revisions when a high-profile organization undergoes change.

Valuable Features

Powerful browses help users who will “know it when they see it,” targeting information in a variety of ways, such as:

- by issue, organization type, or organization name
- by Congress member
- by state name or state office function
- plus additional browses for political party organizations, news services, and state Web sites.

Powerful searches target results by any word or phrase and can be further focused by organization type, key issue, or state.

“Your Address Book,” “Your Profile,” and “Save/Export” features allow users to capture the information they use frequently.

“Letter Template” automatically loads organization addresses.

“Organizational Charts” provide overviews of key government departments.

“Frequently Requested Information” anticipates dozens of the most commonly needed phone numbers and Web addresses based on CQ’s experience.

“What’s Going On This Week” provides a calendar of conferences, anniversaries, and other important events and happenings, complete with Web links for further information.
